Hampshire in black

by Katherin Baptista

Hampshire College is reverting to the black this year, despite being open to all students. The decision was made after the college conducted an survey which showed that 80% of students preferred the black option. However, the return to black was not without controversy, as some students felt that it was not inclusive enough.

The college's total revenue increased by 15% from last year, a total of $125,350,000. Most of this revenue came from the endowment, which increased by 10% to $35,250,000. The amount of student aid also increased by 15%, reaching $52,750,000.

The college has been active in the community, hosting several events and workshops. The most notable was the annual Black History Month celebration, which featured several guest speakers and discussions on topics such as identity and cultural appropriation.

Another notable feature of the college's year was the signing of a new lease with the community center, which allowed the college to utilize the facilities for teaching and community events.

Boston random busted

by David Newhouse

An arrest was made today in connection with a recent incident at a convenience store. The suspect, a 25-year-old man, was arrested at approximately 3:00 PM today.

The incident occurred on November 18th, when a man entered the store and began to cause a disturbance. He was later identified as the person of interest.

Young took the audience to be aware of the dangers of the internet. "If you think the internet is a safe place," he said, "you're wrong. There are websites that can be accessed only by children."

The event was sponsored by the Young's Neighborhood Group, which aims to raise awareness about the dangers of the internet and to provide resources for parents who want to learn more about how to keep their children safe online.

Ainsworth vs. Young: strange bedfellows

by Tara Nelson

In October 8th, the first day of Fall Weekend, the future "Apocalypse Family" and "The End" were held at Hampshire College. The event was organized by the Apocalypse Family and the End, two student groups that have been working together to bring attention to the dangers of climate change.

The Apocalypse Family is a group of students who have been holding weekly protests to demand action on climate change. The End is a group of students who have been organizing events to raise awareness about the effects of climate change.

Despite their differences, the two groups have been able to work together to bring attention to the issue.

Another small town of the Rod family, known for its lively folk festivals, is Hampshire. The town is a popular tourist destination, and the festivals draw many visitors each year. The town is also home to Hampshire College, which is known for its innovative programs and diverse student body.

The college's return to black was met with mixed reactions from students and faculty. Some expressed concern that the decision would make the college look less inclusive, while others were happy to see the college return to its roots.

According to a recent release from public relations office, "The return to black is a symbol of the college's commitment to its mission of providing a diverse and inclusive environment for all students."
AWACS: Reagan's 'Rent-a-Friend'

BY LAURA HERVELING

What started as a simple...
Namibia

By Hadi Razaqpour

As I sat in my last sessions, South Africa’s foreign minister and my host, the former Foreign Minister of South Africa, dealt with the situation that we had in South Africa and also presented the views of the government of South Africa. He talked about the importance of the South African role in Africa and how it has been changing over the years. He also mentioned the role of the United Nations in the region and how it has been assisting in the process of peace and stability.

Super surplus

By Michael Devello

For all students who are living in the city of London, this is a great opportunity to experience the richness of the city's culture and history. The city is a hub of art, culture, and creativity, and there are countless events and exhibitions that take place throughout the year. Whether you are interested in visual arts, music, or dance, there is something for everyone. The city is also home to some of the world's most famous museums and galleries, including the British Museum and the Tate Modern.

Middle East Survival Conference Planned

The Middle East is one of the most strategically important regions in the world, and any developments in the region can have significant implications for the rest of the world. The conference will bring together experts from academia, government, and industry to discuss the latest developments and challenges facing the Middle East, and to explore potential solutions to these challenges.

News for the disabled

By Fathal Hassaan

Last year the following announcements were made by the government: the provision of better access to public transport, the provision of assistive technology in education, and the provision of more accessible housing. These announcements were well received and have led to changes in the way that people with disabilities are able to access public transport and education.

IcelixsD

By Judy Viana

What is残疾人? Disabilities are a common and often hidden issue in society. It is important to recognize and understand disabilities in order to create a more inclusive and equitable society. There are many different types of disabilities, and each person with a disability is unique. Disabilities can be physical, sensory, cognitive, or emotional.

Women's Center notes

There will be a meeting on Monday, October 31st, at 7:00 PM in the Women's Center. This meeting will be about the intersection of women’s rights and environmental justice. The Women's Center is a space for women to come together and discuss issues that are important to them. The meeting will be facilitated by a local environmental justice activist who will speak about the ways in which environmental justice intersects with women's rights.

The Literary Review

By Patricia Alvarez

This issue of the Literary Review features a range of articles and essays, including a critique of a new novel, an interview with a prominent writer, and a review of a recent poetry collection. The Literary Review is a student-run publication that offers a platform for emerging and established writers to share their work.

The Espresso Bean

By Tony Seneca

The Espresso Bean is a new coffee shop that has recently opened in the city. It offers a wide range of coffee options, as well as a selection of pastries and snacks. The atmosphere is cozy and welcoming, and the staff are friendly and knowledgeable.

The Coffee Club

By Vivian Lee

The Coffee Club is a popular coffee shop in the city, known for its wide selection of specialty coffees and its friendly atmosphere. The shop is open late into the evening, making it a great spot for a late-night study session or a post-dinner treat.

The Book of Mormon

By Mark Tuchman

The Book of Mormon is a musical that has been running on Broadway for several years. It tells the story of a young boy named Joseph Smith and his journey to become a prophet. The show is known for its humor and its satirical take on religious leaders.

The Art Gallery

By Elizabeth Taylor

The Art Gallery is a museum that showcases a wide range of art, from ancient to contemporary. The gallery is known for its diverse collection, which includes works from around the world. The Art Gallery is open daily, and admission is free.
Not just listenin' disc

By Gart Allen

Um, there's a few things that... er... I'm not sure what you mean by "not just listenin' disc." Could you provide more context or clarify your question?

In the meantime, let's talk about some recent releases that might interest you.

ACOUSTIC FISH

On October 10, the Louisiana Fish Bank released their debut album, "Acoustic Fish." The album features a mix of country and folk influences, with一首首深沉的歌词和温暖的旋律。

Banks, sister to Brown

The album's lead singer, Banks, sister to Brown, released her latest EP, "The Sound of Silence," this month. Her soulful vocals and introspective lyrics have garnered her a dedicated following.

You Virginia, there really is a crafts center.

By Kevin Martin

Virginia is home to a thriving crafts community, with numerous galleries and workshops throughout the state. From pottery and jewelry to fiber arts and woodwork, there's something for everyone.

Yess, Virginia, there really is a crafts center.

By Kevin Martin

Virginia is home to a thriving crafts community, with numerous galleries and workshops throughout the state. From pottery and jewelry to fiber arts and woodwork, there's something for everyone.

In other news...

Have you noticed the new black and white street signs along Route 1? Well, that's not the New Englanders' way to do it. The signs are actually part of a new safety initiative to improve visibility and reduce accidents.

Do you know the old saying, "You don't need a crystal ball to see the future?" Well, with the help of some experts, we've been looking into the crystal ball to predict the future of the music industry.

Dream on

By Nancy Goer

Dream on, it's not too late. With the right attitude and a little bit of hard work, you can achieve anything you set your mind to.

Hampshire goes to Halifax

If you're planning a trip to the east coast, consider visiting the beautiful city of Halifax. From its historic waterfront to its vibrant art scene, there's plenty to see and do.

THEATRE NOTES

The paper was up by 9 AM on the 3rd floor and by 11 AM in the basement. The actors were rehearsing with a vengeance, and the whole cast was ready to go by 3 PM. The show was a huge success, with standing room only at the final performance.
Medieval Manners

by Michael Greenberg and Kathryn Brianke

The last of the English Barons who ruled in Paris since 1339. The death of King Henry and the last of the English Barons who ruled in Paris since 1339. The death of King Henry...